This Sunday's reading – Twenty-seventh Sunday in Ordinary Time

Gospel: Matthew 21:33-43

A man takes good care of his vineyard. He plants grapes in it, builds a fence and a tower and a press for making wine from the grapes. Then when he goes away he asks some other people to look after it for him. These people are his tenants.

When the time comes for the wine to be ready, the man sends his servants to collect it. What happens to the servants?

Eventually the man sends his son because he thinks the tenants will respect and listen to him. What do the tenants do to the man's son? How do you think the man felt when he heard what the tenants had done?

The tenants were greedy and wanted to keep all the wine for themselves. They didn't want to share it with anyone, not even the man who owned the vineyard.

Do you think this is what Jesus wants us to be like? What does Jesus want us to do?

Jesus told this story so that people could understand more about God and what Jesus had come to do on earth. The different characters in the story represent God, the prophets – who were God's messengers to the people – and Jesus.

Who do you think the man who owned the vineyard is?

Who do you think the servants are who the man sends to deliver a message to the tenants?

Who do you think the son in the story is?

Like the man who gave the vineyard to his tenants to look after, God has given us the earth and all that is in it. God also sent his Son, Jesus, to show us how to live.

We are responsible for looking after the earth and all the animals, people and plants that are in it. Can you think of ways that we sometimes don't take as good care of the earth as we could? What could we do to change this?

The bad tenants in the gospel story thought only about themselves. Jesus asks us to think about other people too, to use the resources of the earth wisely so that everyone can have their fair share and enjoy the wonders of God's creation now and in the future.

What will you do to take care of the earth now and in the future?
